PATEH II

AKSU

COLLECTION CATALOG - FW/22

WWW.AKSU.SITE

The Balinese deeply embedded into their lives to stay balance, - on joy and sadness or good and evil - thus appreciating differences while being one and equal. Being PATEH, a Balinese word that means “same”. Thus, conveying the concept of balancing duality, as how the Bali Aga - the indigenous people of Bali - embraces equality and respect between all living things. This also connects to a Balinese philosophy, “Rwa Bhineda” that defines two opposites that would create a cosmic balance.

This collection’s rustic silhouettes breathe of AKSU’s natural aesthetic mixed with contemporary cuts. There are accents of strings, knots and hooks, that reflect the Bali’s harmony of connection and togetherness. Traditional influences also include Bali Aga’s ritual; the “Pandan War” which tells about restoring peace and purity, and their “Geringsingan” textile‘s weaving technique that translates symmetry and strength. As also depicted from the choice of materials, the F/W 22 collection introduce some naturally dyed fabrics while also combining different textures of properties; from cotton, to fleece, and seashells as trimmings. Earthy warm tones and natural hues are portayed with contrasting hints of popping reds and burgundy. Through different approaches, PATEH II further embodies the overall concept of a balancing composition.
